

EMPLOYEE
HANDBOOK
JANUARY 2024

We founded Precision with two simple ideas. First, that the philosophy and techniques we had developed together on the Obama campaigns could be applied to great organizations — corporate, nonprofit, and political — around the country and the world. And second, that we could build a successful business while staying true to our values, working on projects we believe in with people we like and respect.

Ten years later, we think we've done a pretty good job holding on to those two principles. But the truth is, we had no idea back then where this journey would take us. We had no idea that the people we'd meet — clients, yes, but most of all our own team — would teach us more than we ever learned in our past lives in politics. We had no idea that we wouldn't just apply the old Obama playbook to client after client but develop radically new playbooks that continue to define what "good" looks like in our field. We had no idea we'd get to work on a group of projects so diverse and so interesting that our political days would look boring by comparison.

It's also worth noting that we had no idea how our politics would continue to evolve, making the cause-based part of our portfolio that much more relevant and urgent, and compelling so many corporations to ask for our help engaging their increasingly active customer bases. If you're reading this, it's either because you've chosen to join us at Precision, or because we've been hacked by the Russians again and this letter has landed on Wikileaks. Assuming the former, thank you. We don't say this out loud as often as we should, but we think it every single day: we wouldn't have a company, have an impact in the world, or have any fun doing what we do if it weren't for you. We are honored to be your colleagues.

In our first company letter, we wrote something that still rings true today. "As you go about your work with us, remember that every client who has hired us could have chosen a larger, more established, more traditional agency.... In many ways, that would have been the smarter, safer thing to do. They chose us instead because they believe that we are the best in the world. And it's on us to prove them right. That means we don't just execute tasks at their direction — though we should always be willing to help out when they need — but rather work with them to rethink their strategies and develop cutting-edge ideas.... It means we owe them the bracing truth, even if it's uncomfortable to say or runs counter to the prevailing wisdom or industry trend. It means there's no excuse for delivering a plan that isn't thought through...or an idea that we can't stand behind."

The rest of this document describes your rights as Precision employees. As progressives in our personal lives, we try to be a progressive employer as well, and we're pleased to offer benefits — from paid time off and parental leave to 401(k) matching and excellent health coverage — that reflect our values. As always, please consider it a living document. We are still growing, not just in revenue and headcount but in our thinking and maturity as a company, and we are counting on you to be our partners as we continue to improve both our client offerings and our internal culture and practices.

Thank you again for being part of this team.

Stephanie & Teddy

INTRODUCTION

This handbook has been prepared to describe some of the policies and procedures you will be expected to follow during the time of your employment at Precision Strategies (referred to as Precision or the "Company"). The information contained in this handbook applies to all employees. This handbook does not create a contract, express or implied, guaranteeing you any specific term of employment or benefit nor does it obligate you to continue your employment for a specific period of time.

Precision policies and procedures are subject to change at any time, at the direction of the Partners. Any changes will be effective on dates determined by the Company. Precision will notify employees of changes to the Company policies. The latest version of this handbook can always be found on the Company shared Google Drive in the HR/Operations folder.

This handbook is an overview or a guideline. It cannot cover every matter that might arise in the workplace so for unmentioned situations, reach out to a Partner, COO, or the Human Resources Director. The Company reserves the right to modify any of our policies and procedures, including those covered in this handbook, at any time. We will seek to notify you of such changes; however, such a notice is not required for changes to be effective.

The Company operates in several states within the United States. Although we seek to monitor the laws in all states where we have employees, our handbook may not always reflect the very latest requirements. We are, of course, committed to complying with all applicable laws.

Should you have any questions about any of the policies, please do not hesitate to ask a Partner, COO, or the Human Resources Director.

Welcome!

HOW WE APPROACH OUR WORK

The Precision Strategies team has a hard-won reputation for excellence. We are known not just for our track record of winning, but for our ongoing work of innovation, creativity, and success. In addition, we are recognized by our clients for being easy to work with, for being positive and proactive, and for making projects enjoyable experiences to work on.

To win this reputation, we hired some of the very best people in our spheres - you. We expect you to work hard and to do good, creative work, and to help maintain that reputation. Ensuring a positive culture is an essential part of being successful. We each want to work in a friendly, positive atmosphere, but we also believe that kindness and collegiality are essential to ensuring each person can do their best work.

To that end, we have set out some key points that everyone, from top to bottom, is expecting to take on board and take seriously:

Do work you can be proud of.

We are retained by our clients to be the best in our areas of expertise. They have high expectations of us, and they pay for them; we take pride in showing them they made the right call in hiring us. Take time to do your best work every day. Care about your clients -- you may be working with them just as closely as with your coworkers here. Continue to develop your skills by being inquisitive, learning from your colleagues, taking up training opportunities, and by following what campaigns and organizations are doing.

Sweat the small stuff.

We take joy in excelling at both the big things and the small things. Take care in the work you do. Remember that one little mistake can undo the efforts of the whole team. Being great at your job doesn't just mean having the big idea in the brainstorm, but also proofreading the memo, writing up the meeting agenda, tying up that final loose end, and handling the thousand other little tasks that keep things moving.

Be mindful of process.

Our processes were formulated out of difficult moments to ensure we don't repeat mistakes. Respect the process for new clients launching. Respect account leads' decision making. Respect sign-off processes. Logistics are not always glamorous but Harvest, Expensify, vacation requests, sick leave, and so on, all add up to ensuring that an increasingly complex organization running smoothly.

Follow the social media guidelines and be mindful about what you write, online, in email and in documents.

Don't be a jerk.

We are a team. Be considerate of one another, and act toward your colleagues as you hope they will act toward you. We will only succeed if we work for each other as much as we work for the client. Look out for the people you work with (including your clients). We take kindness seriously. We want to work in a friendly environment, and sustaining one is good for business. We take this task seriously, and we expect you to be part of those efforts in the way they work with your colleagues.

Swing for the fences.

Our clients expect consistently good work. They expect us to be responsive, professional, diligent, and solid. But that's not enough. We want to do work that changes the world. The goal isn't just to keep clients satisfied, but to wow them. We want to be noticed, to think differently, to go viral, to have ideas that no one's ever had before and run campaigns that change the way people think and act.

CONDUCT & ETHICS

All employees are required to meet certain standards of conduct that affect the functioning of Precision. Although there is no way to identify every possible violation of standards of conduct, the following is a partial list of infractions that will result in corrective action:

- Falsifying employment applications, timekeeping records, personnel files, or other Company documents or records.
- Unauthorized possession of Company or employee property, gambling, carrying weapons or explosives, or violating criminal laws on Company premises.
- Fighting, throwing things, horseplay, practical jokes or other disorderly conduct which may endanger the well-being of any employee on Company premises.
- Engaging in acts of dishonesty, fraud, theft or sabotage.
- Accepting gifts or other free items from any client or vendor unless specifically authorized.
- Threatening, intimidating, coercing, using abusive or vulgar language, or interfering with the performance of other employees.
- Insubordination or refusal to comply with instructions or failure to perform reasonable duties that are assigned.
- Not accounting for, nor entering your time into the Company's time tracking software on a weekly basis or as instructed by your manager.
- Excessive absenteeism and/or tardiness without a proper excuse.
- Unauthorized use of a Company credit card including usage of the Company card for personal or unapproved purchases.
- Unauthorized obligation of Company financial resources to a vendor or payee.
- Unauthorized use of Company material, time, equipment, or property.
- Damaging, destroying, or losing Company property due to careless or willful acts.
- Conduct that the Company believes reflects adversely on the employee or the Company.
- Performance that, in the Company's opinion, does not meet the requirements of the position.
- Engaging in any activity, business, or employment, either during or after working hours, that would conflict with the Company's interests or diminish the employee's ability to render to the Company the full, loyal, and undivided service.
- Negligence in observing fire prevention and safety rules.
- Violation of physical and information security rules.
- The use, influence, purchase or sale of illicit drugs or controlled dangerous substances on Company property or a client's site during working hours.
- Other circumstances for which the Company feels that corrective action is warranted.
- Committing Acts of illegal discrimination or harassment.
- Failure to comply with the Company's Confidentiality policy
- Unauthorized contacts to Press and/or New Media representatives.

This list is intended to be representative of the types of activities that may result in disciplinary action. It is not intended to be comprehensive and does not alter the employment-at-will relationship between the employee and the Company.

We strive to take a constructive approach to disciplinary matters to ensure that actions that would interfere with operations or a co-employee's job are not continued. Violations of our standards may result in one of the following forms of corrective action: Discharge, suspension, oral warning or written warning. In arriving at a decision for proper action, the following will be considered:

- The seriousness of the infraction.
- The past record of the employee.
- The circumstances surrounding the matter.

CONFLICT OF INTEREST

Employees are expected to devote their best efforts to the interests of the Company and the conduct of its affairs. The Company recognizes the right of employees to engage in activities outside of their employment which are of a private nature and unrelated to our business. However, a policy of full disclosure must be followed to assess and prevent potential conflicts of interest from arising. A Partner must provide authorization to any Company employee who wishes to engage in commercial or employment activity outside of the Company. Any employee who does have authorization to engage in commercial activities outside of his or her employment with the Company, however, cannot use any the Company resources in that activity. Solicitation or advertisement of commercial activities outside of Company employment is also prohibited.

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY/ NON-DISCRIMINATION POLICY

The Company is an equal opportunity employer, and it is our policy to recruit, hire, train, promote and administer all personnel actions without regard to sex, race, age, color, creed, national origin, religion, economic status, sexual orientation, veteran status, gender identity or expression, ethnic identity or physical disability, or any other legally protected basis. This policy covers all programs, services, policies, and procedures of the Company, including opportunity for employment and treatment as a Company employee. The Company is an equal opportunity employer and will comply with all applicable laws prohibiting discrimination in employment. If you believe that an employment decision has been made that does not conform with the Company's commitment to equal opportunity, you should promptly bring the matter to the attention of your immediate Supervisor, the Human Resources team or a Partner, where applicable. Your complaint will be thoroughly investigated. There will be no retaliation against any employee who files a complaint in good faith, even if the result of the investigation produces insufficient evidence to support the complaint.

HARASSMENT

Employers interested in human dignity and protection of their employees are particularly concerned about the possibility of employee harassment, whether it is sexual, racial, ethnic or of some other type. Harassment in any form – verbal, physical or visual – is strictly against the Company policy and will result in corrective action.

If you believe you have been the victim of harassment, or know of one who has, please report it immediately to your direct supervisor, the Director of Human Resources and/or a Partner, where applicable.

ANTI-HARASSMENT POLICY

Precision is committed to providing a work environment that is free of unlawful harassment. Discriminatory treatment based on an individual's sex (with or without sexual conduct), race, color, ethnicity, national origin, age, disability, sexual orientation, religion, or because the individual opposed job discrimination or participated in an investigation or complaint proceeding under the Equal Employment Opportunity statutes, or any other legally protected characteristic will not be tolerated. To avoid circumstances where harassment becomes severe or pervasive, employees should report all incidences of harassment immediately. All employees must comply in completing our anti-harassment and discrimination training. Any employee engaging in prohibited discriminatory actions will be subject to disciplinary action, up to, and including termination of employment.

SEXUAL HARASSMENT

Precision will neither condone nor tolerate sexual harassment. Sexual harassment is a form of illegal discrimination that involves unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and/or other unwanted verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature. Sexual harassment includes sexually oriented conduct that is sufficiently pervasive or severe enough to reasonably interfere with an employee's job performance or to create an intimidating, hostile, or offensive working environment. While sexual harassment encompasses a wide range of conduct, some examples of specifically prohibited conduct include:

- Promising, directly, or indirectly, an employee a reward if the employee complies with a sexually oriented request.
- Threatening, directly or indirectly, to retaliate against an employee if the employee refuses to comply with a sexually oriented request.
- Engaging in sexually suggestive physical contact or touching another employee in a way that is unwelcome.
- Making obscene gestures or using foul language of an offensive and sexual nature.
- Displaying, storing, or transmitting pornographic or sexually oriented materials.
- Making offensive jokes or remarks of a sexual nature.
- Making and/or distributing communications by electronic mail, fax, or otherwise, that contain threatening, sexually oriented, or offensive material.

HARASSMENT AND DISCRIMINATION COMPLAINT PROCEDURE

If an employee believes that he/she has been subjected to prohibited discrimination or harassment or if an employee is aware of any such conduct, the incident must immediately be reported to his/her direct supervisor. If your supervisor is unavailable or if you do not feel comfortable contacting that individual, you should contact the Director of Human Resources or Partner. All complaints will be promptly and thoroughly investigated, and each complaint will be handled as confidentially as possible. Precision ensures that employees following this complaint procedure will be protected against illegal retaliation. Complaints will be investigated impartially and if found to be truthful, Precision will take immediate corrective action. It is a part of every employee's job to participate fully and honestly in any workplace investigation. Anyone found to have engaged in harassment will be subject to disciplinary action, up to, and including termination of employment.

ETHICS AND CONFIDENTIALITY

Your work for the Company, your personnel status and salary are all treated as private information, except to the extent that we are required to disclose for federal reporting purposes. You are expected to respect the privacy of others in those matters, and, in turn, the Company has a responsibility to honor your privacy. Absolute confidentiality must be maintained concerning the Company and client matters. Always assume anything you have heard or read to be of a confidential nature. Documents which cross your desk and conversations you hear cannot be disclosed to anyone outside of the Company. Under no circumstances should the Company staff communicate with members of the press regarding the Company without prior approval by a Partner. Non-authorized communications with the media can result in immediate termination.

PERSONAL CONDUCT AND APPEARANCE

Those who work for the Company are expected to dress appropriately and to conduct themselves in a professional manner consistent with the Company. Employees are expected to maintain an appropriate appearance that is professional both in person and virtually, neat, and clean. Dress and appearance should not be offensive to visitors or other employees. Individuals who appear in the office in inappropriate attire will be asked to return home and change as required to meet office standards. These standards apply to all staff.

EMPLOYMENT POLICIES

EMPLOYMENT RELATIONSHIP

Unless the employee is subject to an express written agreement to the contrary, all employment with the Company is at will, and may be terminated by either the employee or the Company at any time, with or without notice, and with or without cause.

DEFINITIONS OF EMPLOYMENT STATUS

The following terms will be used to describe the classification of employees and their employment status:

- Exempt employees - exempt employees typically hold an administrative, professional or management position. Exempt employees are not subject to the overtime pay provisions of the federal Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA).
- Non-Exempt Employees – non-exempt employees are eligible for overtime pay of one-and one-half (1½) times their regular rate of pay for hours worked in excess of 40 per workweek.
- Full-time: Employees scheduled to work 40 hours or more per week.
- Part-time: Employees scheduled to work less than 40 hours per week. Those employees working fewer than 30 hours per week may not be eligible for benefits.
- Temporary: Employees that fill a short-term position not expected to last more than one year or to meet an employment need that is scheduled to be terminated within one or more years for reasons such as the completion of a specific project or peak workload.
 - Interns are not considered employees, and this policy does not apply to designated interns, regardless of the number of hours worked per week.

ABSENCE WITHOUT NOTICE

For us to operate the Company effectively, we ask that you keep us informed of your status when you are off work because of illness, personal emergency, or accident from any cause. Failure to notify the Company of an absence may lead to serious consequences, and in some cases may be interpreted as a resignation. If you fail to notify us after three (3) days of consecutive absence, we may presume you have resigned, and you will be removed from the payroll. If you are out of work due to a short-term illness or disability, you must notify your supervisor of the expected length of absence and contact your supervisor as the situation changes. Failure to do so could result in termination.

ALCOHOL AND DRUGS

It is the policy of the Company that all employees, without exception, must strictly comply with all legal prohibitions on the sale, possession, and use of controlled substances (properly obtained prescription medications excluded). The Company will not permit the illegal use of drugs or alcohol in the workplace, and employees will not be allowed to work under the influence of such substances. Any employee caught using, selling, or possessing such controlled substances may be immediately placed on administrative leave (with or without pay). The Company shall cooperate fully and completely with appropriate law enforcement authorities in investigating and prosecuting any violations of law. Company employees should be aware that the legal drinking age in the United States is 21. Although alcoholic beverages may be served in connection with certain Company functions, this legal requirement must be strictly always observed. Violations will be subject to disciplinary action.

AMERICANS WITH DISABILITIES ACT

The federal Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) prohibits discrimination against qualified individuals with disabilities in job application procedures, hiring, firing, advancement, compensation, fringe benefits, job training and other terms, conditions and privileges of employment. The ADA does not alter the Company's right to hire the best-qualified applicant, but it does prohibit discrimination against a qualified applicant or employee because of his or her disability, or because of a perceived disability. As a matter of Company policy, the Company prohibits discrimination of any kind against people with disabilities.

Qualified applicants or employees who are disabled should request reasonable accommodation from the Company to allow them to perform a particular job. If you are disabled and you wish such reasonable accommodation, contact your direct supervisor, the Human Resources team and/or a Partner, where applicable. We will then work with you to determine whether your disability can be reasonably accommodated, and if it can be accommodated, we will explore alternatives with you and endeavor to implement a mutually agreeable accommodation. Reasonable accommodation may take many forms and it will vary from one employee to another. Please note that according to the ADA, the Company does not have to provide the exact accommodation you want, and if more than one accommodation works, we may choose which one to provide. Furthermore, any accommodation that will impose undue hardship on the Company is not considered reasonable.

BACKGROUND CHECKS

Employees may be required to complete a background check if required by a client. Precision will ensure that all background checks are conducted in compliance with all federal and state statutes such as the Fair Credit Reporting Act, as applicable.

CHANGES IN PERSONAL STATUS AFFECTING PAYROLL/BENEFITS

It is imperative that when there are any changes in your address, telephone number, and/or family status (births, marriage, death, divorce, legal separation etc.), that you notify the HR team immediately, as income tax status and group insurance may be affected by these changes.

EMPLOYEE ADVANCEMENT (REVIEWS & DEVELOPMENT)

ANNUAL REVIEWS

Precision supports our employees' advancement by giving consistent feedback and through our annual review process. Increases and promotions are considered during an employee's formal annual review appraisal, which happens the anniversary month of an employee's start date. The annual review consists of the employee completing a self-review and an evaluation conducted by their manager, incorporating 360 feedback from colleagues.

For positions at the Senior Associate level and higher, employees are expected to stay in the role for at least two years mastering the position before advancing to the next level. If an off-cycle promotion or increase occurs, the new date for an employee's review will shift to the off-cycle date. All promotions and increases will go through the Partners for approval.

High earners are eligible for an increase every two years but will go through the review process every year.

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Employees have up to $500 per year to use toward professional development, as approved by their manager and HR. All staff are eligible to use the professional development funds after completing 90 days of employment. However, if a staff member uses the funds and leaves Precision after 90 days of using those funds the amount must be paid back.

EMPLOYMENT DOCUMENTATION

Staffers must complete basic employee information as required either by law or the employment policies of the Company, such as an Offer Letter, Nondisclosure Agreement, I-9 employment eligibility verification, federal and state tax forms, emergency contact information, and acknowledgement of the employment policies.

HIPAA PRIVACY

Precision has adopted a policy that protects the privacy and confidentiality of protected health information (PHI) whenever it is used by company representatives. The private and confidential use of such information will be the responsibility of all individuals with job duties requiring access to PHI in the course of their jobs. PHI refers to individually identifiable health information received by the Company's group health plans and/or received by a health care provider, health plan or health care clearinghouse that relates to past or present health of an individual or for payment of health care claims. PHI information includes medical conditions, health status, claims experience, medical histories, physical examinations, genetic information and evidence of disability.

IMMIGRATION LAW APPLICABLE TO ALL EMPLOYEES

The Company complies with the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986 by employing only U.S. citizens and non-citizens who are authorized to work in the United States. All employees are asked on their first day of work to provide original documents verifying the right to work in the United States and to sign a verification form required by federal law (Form I-9). If you cannot verify your right to work in the United States within three (3) days of hire, the Company is required by law to terminate your employment.

PERSONNEL RECORDS

Important employee information and required employment documentation will be recorded and kept in an employee personnel file. Contact information, tax deduction elections, employment, and benefits documentation, and change of status records are examples of records maintained. Your personnel file is available for your inspection at the Company. An employee may authorize the release of any information in his or her personnel file to any person, institution, or agency at any time by sending a written authorization to the Operations team.

RESIGNATION/SEPARATION FROM THE COMPANY

When an individual's employment is terminated, the employee may be required to sign and submit separation papers prior to leaving to facilitate the transition process. This may include returning the Company property and completing required forms. You may be asked by your supervisor to provide a memo and documentation pertaining to your job duties, files, contacts and work project status. Employees must return all Company equipment including but not limited to computer, computer accessories and keys. Terminating employees are bound by the Company's confidentiality policy. Any information received in the course of the employee's work must not be disclosed to any other party both during the employee's employment and after separation. If you resign from the Company, please submit a letter of resignation in addition to any other forms required of you.

SMOKING

Precision is committed to providing a healthy, comfortable, and productive work environment for all employees. To maintain a workplace free from the effects of environmental tobacco smoke, smoking is prohibited. This applies to all employees, members, contractors, vendors, job applicants, visitors, and all others while on Company property.

SOLICITATION AND DISTRIBUTION

Soliciting by one employee of another, or collecting money from one employee by another, is prohibited while either employee is on work time. Distributing literature and circulating petitions during work time or in work areas at any time is also prohibited. Trespassing, soliciting, or distributing literature by any non-Company employee is prohibited.

COMPENSATION, BONUSES & BENEFITS

PAY PERIODS

Precision will follow a twice-monthly payroll cycle, which will result in twenty-four (24) pay periods per year. Employees will be paid on the 15th and the last day of each month. If either of those days falls on a weekend or holiday, the payroll date will be the previous business day.

DIRECT DEPOSIT

Precision offers direct deposit of your payroll check. We encourage all employees to take advantage of direct deposit. In order to initiate direct deposit, you must provide a blank voided check or deposit slip to Precision and indicate whether this is a checking or savings account. Once you hand in a voided check to Precision, your direct deposit will begin with the next possible payroll cycle.

PAY ADVANCES

Precision does not provide advances of salary.

PAYROLL DEDUCTIONS

Various payroll deductions are made each payday to comply with federal and state laws pertaining to taxes and insurance. Deductions will be made for the following:

- Federal and State Income Tax Withholding
- Social Security (FICA)
- Medicare
- Employee-share of health/dental/vision premiums (if you elected health insurance coverage)

Occasionally other non-recurring deductions may be required. You will be notified if one of these types of deductions is necessary.

ANNUAL BONUS OPPORTUNITY

Precision employees are eligible for a discretionary annual bonus. Precision does not guarantee bonuses at the end of each year, bonuses based on individual and Company performance have historically been as high as 10 percent or, in exceptional cases, 15 percent of an employee's annual salary. Bonuses are typically paid in February or March of the following year, or whenever Precision's annual financial statements are closed. For example, 2024 bonuses will be paid in February or March 2025.

To qualify for annual bonus, employees must be full-time employees with Precision at the time bonuses are paid and in good standing, e.g., the employee cannot be not on probation (PIP) or have submitted their resignation. Additionally, only employees who have been employed by Precision during the first three fiscal quarters of the bonus year (January 1 – September 30) are eligible for annual bonuses. Employees who join Precision after September 30 are ineligible for annual bonuses for that year; however, they may earn a spot bonus if their performance is exemplary.

Annual bonuses are calculated as a percentage of the employee's wages, not including bonuses or commissions, earned from January 1 through December 31. For new employees, it's based on their wages from their employment start date through December 31.

BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT BONUS

For any new client that you are responsible for bringing to Precision, a discretionary bonus (commission) of up to 7.5 percent of net sales, defined as client billings less third-party costs (e.g. vendors or subcontractors) will be paid on that business as long as the client is actively engaged with Precision and in good financial standing. Commissions are paid annually and paid in late April or May of the following year when Precision's previous year's financial statements are reviewed and closed. Commissions will not be paid until a client is fully paid for the year in which the commission is earned (e.g., 2023 client invoices must be fully paid before a commission is paid to the employee in 2024).

EMPLOYEE REFERRAL BONUS

Precision will offer a tiered referral bonus for current employees that refer candidates we hire to join the Precision team. All staff are eligible for this bonus and the bonus will be paid when the referred employee starts.

Bonus amounts:

Associate/Senior Associate: $750

Principal/Associate Vice President/Vice President: $1,000

Senior Vice President/Executive Vice President: $1,500

In order to get credit for the referral, send an email to HR with the referred candidate's resume attached.

HOLIDAYS

Employees are eligible for 12 holidays per year as follows:

- New Year's Day
- Martin Luther King, Jr.'s Birthday
- (Inauguration Day, as applicable)
- President's Day
- Memorial Day
- Juneteenth
- Independence Day
- Labor Day
- Indigenous Peoples' Day
- Veterans Day
- Thanksgiving Day
- The Day after Thanksgiving Day
- Christmas Day

In addition to the above holidays, Precision typically closes between Christmas and New Year's Day without loss of salary. Moreover, the Company, at its discretion, will announce and grant additional paid time off throughout the calendar year.

Employees should note that on all holidays, and any other days they are away from the office, they are expected to be generally reachable and available to respond to Precision and client issues, unless otherwise specified by a supervisor.

FLOATING HOLIDAYS

All full time staff will get three (3) additional paid floating holidays/personal days, in addition to Precision's regular paid holidays. These three floating holidays/personal days can be used as religious or cultural holidays, birthdays, nature days, or other state or federal holidays not observed by Precision. Floating holidays must be used in full day increments.

Floating holidays will be prorated based on start date. Employees should have advanced approval from their manager before using the days. The three floating holidays will not carryover into the next calendar year and will not be paid out if the employee leaves Precision.

VACATION

Precision provides fifteen (15) business days of vacation per year for full-time employees. Full-time employees may earn one (1) additional vacation day for every year after their first year with Precision, but not to exceed a total of twenty (20) business days of vacation per year. Temporary employees are not entitled to vacation days, and paid vacation days may only be granted with the approval of a partner.

Employees are given a lump sum of vacation time at the beginning of the year. However, if an employee leaves Precision mid year, they will have a prorated amount from their termination date.

During the employee's first year of employment, they earns a prorated amount of time based on their hire date, which will be given to the new hire at their 90-day mark of employment. New hires may "borrow" against accrued paid vacation time in special circumstances a new hire can use these vacation days for special occasions that were planned pre-employment, such as weddings, with manager's approval.

All vacation requests must be approved by an employee's manager and share with their account teams, as well as being recorded in our time tracking system and ADP. Please provide your direct supervisor with at least two (2) weeks of notice before the requested period. Partial days will be tracked in the same manner as vacation days and must be reported in ADP.

Employees may rollover up to five (5) days of vacation at the end of the calendar year into the next calendar year. Rollover vacation time will not be paid out if the employee leaves Precision.

The balance of the employee's vacation days is not paid out upon the employee's termination with Precision, except as required by state law.

Please use vacation days thoughtfully throughout the year, and do not plan to take the bulk of your vacation at the end of the year, which is typically a busy period for client work. Vacation days between Thanksgiving and Christmas are discouraged and time off approvals during this period are at the discretion of a partner for extraordinary circumstances.

While on vacation, it may be necessary to conduct some time-sensitive Precision business and be accessible via phone or email. However, days out of the office for vacation will be counted as a vacation day, unless approved by a partner.

All exceptions to this policy for unique circumstances will be at the discretion of a partner.

SICK DAYS

We ask that any employee that feels sick and/or test positive for COVID not physically come into our offices. Precision gives each employee ten (10) sick days to use toward illness and/or medical appointments. Employees taking sick leave are expected to call or email their direct supervisor by 10:00 AM and indicate that a day of sick leave is being taken, and subsequently report into ADP for tracking. This call or email should be made every day unless you know in advance that you will be out for a specific number of days. Precision reserves the right to ask for medical certification for any employees who are out more than three (3) consecutive days.

Precision will provide a lump sum of ten (10) days of sick leave up front upon the employee's hire date or on January 1 annually. However, during the employee's first year of employment, they earns a prorated amount of the standard allowance based on the number of months worked from their date of hire up through December 31st. The prorated amount will be equal to 1/12 of 10 days (the standard allowance), for each month worked. For example, the employee's date of hire is July 1st, the employee would be awarded 5 sick days for working six (6) months. These sick days will be available for use during July 1st and December 31st.

Sick leave taken in addition to the ten (10) allotted sick days per year will be counted as vacation days and tracked accordingly. Sick days may also be used if an employee needs time off for scheduled medical appointments or procedures. If the need for sick leave is foreseeable in the case of a planned treatment or appointment, employees are required to give prior notice whenever possible. The balance of each employee's sick day allotment will be rolled over at the end of each calendar year.

If you contract COVID, we ask that you follow current CDC guidelines as it pertains to isolation.

The balance of the employee's sick days is not paid out upon the employee's termination with Precision, except as required by state law.

All exceptions to this policy for unique circumstances will be at the discretion of a partner.

OTHER TYPES OF LEAVE

BEREAVEMENT

In the event of a death in your immediate family, all employees are eligible for up to five (5) business days, with pay, to handle family affairs and attend the funeral. "Immediate family" is defined as: spouse, partner, children, parents, grandparents, brothers, sisters, mother-in-law, father-in-law, brother-in-law, or sister-in-law. Employees are eligible for up to two (2) business days, with pay, to attend the funeral of other relatives not considered immediate family members or non-family members. All exceptions to this policy for unique circumstances will be at the discretion of a partner.

COMPENSATORY TIME

Salaried, full-time employees working full days (8 hours or more) on weekends or holidays may be eligible for compensatory time at the discretion of SVPs and above. Compensatory time is to be added and tracked through ADP and cannot be rolled over year to year.

JURY DUTY

If you are called for Jury Duty, please notify your direct supervisor immediately and provide a copy of your notice to the HR team or a Partner for your personnel file. We encourage employees to perform their civic duties. If you are chosen to sit on a jury panel, you must inform your direct supervisor immediately, and you must continue to call or email in each day until your service is completed. If you are not chosen to sit on a jury panel, you are expected to report to work upon dismissal. If you are chosen to sit on a jury panel, you are expected to report to work each day upon dismissal. In either case, you will still be expected to meet already agreed upon deadlines for your clients, unless otherwise cleared with your direct supervisor or a Partner. At the completion of your service, you should bring a notice from the court that confirms the dates of your service. All employees may be paid for up to ten (10) business days of service. Any salary paid for service over ten (10) business days must be cleared by a Partner.

VOTING LEAVE

We encourage our staff to take part in the democratic process and exercise their right to vote in local and federal elections. We ask that staff either vote before or after work, but if that is not possible staff can take up to 2 hours off to participate in the election process.

PARENTAL LEAVE

Precision is firmly committed to protecting the rights of expectant mothers and fathers and complying with Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, as amended by the Pregnancy Discrimination Act of 1978, the Family and Medical Leave Act and the Americans with Disabilities Act. Paid leave may be substituted for unpaid maternity or paternity leave in accordance with Precision's paid leave substitution provisions of Precision's FMLA policy. Pregnant employees may continue to work until they are certified as unable to work by their physician. At that point, pregnant employees should work through the appropriate options with the Human Resources team based on state and federal guidelines. When the employee returns to work, she or he is entitled to return to the same or equivalent job with no loss of service or other rights or privileges. Should an employee not return to work when released by her physician, or after his or her allotted leave is complete, she or he will be considered to have voluntarily terminated her or his employment Precision. All nursing mothers will be entitled to reasonable break time and a place other than a bathroom to express breast milk at work for up to a year after childbirth. Precision offers all new parents twelve (12) weeks of parental leave following the birth, adoption, or addition of a foster child paid out at 100% of wages. All full-time employees, including same sex couples, are eligible. Employees utilizing this leave must take the leave continuously. The leave cannot be broken up over the course of the year. Part-time employees are eligible for half of the paid time off. Paid parental leave runs concurrently with Family Medical Leave.

MEDICAL LEAVE

Family and Medical Leave of Absence (FMLA) and the Labor Codes of the District of Columbia
These policies set forth the Company policy on unpaid family and medical leaves of absence. The policy explains (1) employees' rights under federal law, i.e., that Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993 ("FMLA"); and (2) benefits granted employees by the Company that are not mandated by federal law, but are further restrictive under state law, i.e., those sections of the Codes of the District of Columbia and New York relating to Labor. Employees Rights under the FMLA and the laws of the District of Columbia: Eligible employees are entitled to leave without pay for one or more of the following reasons:

- Because of the birth of a son or daughter and in order to care for such son or daughter.
- Because of the placement of a son or daughter with the employee for adoption or foster care.
- In order to care for the spouse, or a son, daughter, or parent, of the employee, if such spouse, son, daughter, or parent has a serious health condition.
- Because of a serious health condition that makes an employee unable to perform the functions of his or her position.
- Any qualifying exigency arising out of the fact that the employee's spouse, son, daughter, or parent is a covered military member on "covered active duty."

For purposes of paragraph (c) above, "son or daughter" means a child of the employee who is under 18 years of age, or 18 years of age or older and incapable of self-care due to a mental or physical disability.

An eligible employee is one who has at least twelve (12) months of service with the Company and who has worked at least 1,000 hours over the twelve (12) month period immediately preceding the commencement of the leave.

Eligible employees are entitled to a total of sixteen (16) workweeks of unpaid family leave and sixteen (16) workweeks of unpaid medical leave for employee's own serious medical condition during any twenty-four (24)-month period. Leave may be taken intermittently or on a reduced leave schedule if such leave is medically necessary given the serious health condition of the employee or the employee's family member.

Whenever feasible, an employee should provide notice of his or her intention to take a medical or family leave at least two (2) weeks prior to the date the leave is expected to commence. If such notice is not possible, the employee should provide notice as soon as possible. The notice should include the date the leave is to begin and the expected duration of the leave.

In connection with a leave requested on account of a serious health condition of an employee or the employee's spouse, parent, or child, the Company may require medical certification supporting the need for leave. The certification should provide, to the extent applicable, the date and probable duration of the serious health condition; an estimate of the amount of time the employee will be needed to care for the spouse, parent, or child, and a statement that the serious health condition warrants the participation of a family member to provide care.

The Company will continue health plan coverage for the duration of a family or medical leave to the same extent as if the leave was not taken and the employee remained at work. However, if the employee fails to return from leave, the employee may be required to reimburse the Company for the cost of premiums the Company paid on behalf of the employee during the employee's leave. While on medical leave, the employee must continue to make employee-paid health insurance contributions he or she was required to make prior to the leave.

An employee returning from leave will be entitled to the position the employee held prior to commencement of the leave, or to an equivalent position with equivalent terms and conditions of employment.

An employee returning from leave taken on account of his or her own serious health condition may be required to provide medical certification of his or her ability to return to work.

An employee who requests family or medical leave will be provided with written notification as to whether he or she is entitled to leave. If the Company determines that the employee is entitled to leave, the notice will also set forth the specific expectations and obligations applying to the employee's leave.

NEW YORK PAID FAMILY LEAVE

Employees working in New York will be covered by the state's temporary disability insurance law which provides eligible employees with paid, job protected leave of absence. This is an employee funded program. Employees pay for Paid Family Leave benefits through a small weekly payroll deduction. Eligible employees who have worked for 26 or more consecutive weeks will be eligible for Paid Family Leave (PFL). Eligible reasons for PFL include the following: 1) to bond with a new child, including an adopted or foster child within the first 12 months after the child's birth, adoption or placement; 2) to provide physical or psychological care for the serious health condition of the employee's child, spouse, domestic partner, parent, parent-in-law, sibling, grandchild or grandparent, or 3) to address certain exigent needs when a spouse, domestic partner, child or parent is called to active military service.

- On or after January 1, 2018, eligible employees will be entitled to up to 8 weeks of family leave in any 52-week period at 50% of their average weekly wage (capped at 50% of the state average weekly wage)
- On or after January 1, 2019, eligible employees will be entitled to up to 10 weeks of family leave in any 52-week period at 55% of their average weekly wage (capped at 55% of the state average weekly wage)
- On or after January 1, 2020, eligible employees will be entitled to up to 10 weeks of family leave in any 52-week period at 60% of their average weekly wage (capped at 60% of the state average weekly wage)
- On or after January 1 of each succeeding year, eligible employees will be entitled to up to 12 weeks of family leave in any 52-week period at 67% of their average weekly wage (capped at 67% of the state average weekly wage).

The law provides job protection for employees taking leave and requires the continuation of healthcare benefits, as long as the employee continues to submit his/her share of the insurance premium during the leave.

NEW YORK DISABILITY BENEFITS

If an employee is injured or ill, the employee may be eligible for New York State short-term disability benefits under its Disability Benefits Law (DBL). While these benefits are limited both in amount and number of payments, they can be very helpful in providing cash to those who are temporarily unable to work. Disability benefits will pay 50% of your average wages (calculated over the prior eight weeks) up to a maximum of $170 per week. Benefits will begin on your eighth consecutive day out of work; the first seven days is an unpaid waiting period. You can receive benefits for a maximum of 26 weeks in a 52-week period.

LEAVE WITHOUT PAY

Other than that, provided for in the Family and Medical Leave of Absence policy or state specific guidelines, employees should not expect to receive authorization for unpaid leave. The Company does not offer a leave without pay program; however, exceptions may be made at the discretion of the Partners.

COORDINATION WITH OTHER TYPES OF LEAVE

If an employee is covered by Federal Family Medical Leave (FMLA) (unpaid leave), leave covered by FMLA will run concurrently with Paid Family Leave or any other type of paid or unpaid leave. Employees may use accrued vacation or other employer-provided paid parental leave in lieu of applying for paid family leave benefits, but it is not required. Leave taken on the Company's short term disability plan may be taken in lieu of Paid Family Leave or may be taken in addition to Paid Family Leave (e.g., employees may take Paid Family Leave after completion of the company's Short-Term Disability Leave).

SCHOOL ACTIVITIES LEAVE (D.C. EMPLOYEES)

Employees who are parents may take up to 24 hours unpaid leave during any 12-month period to attend or participate in school-related events in which they have a child participating. Parents include (1) biological parents, (2) persons with legal custody of a child, (3) persons who act as a child's guardian regardless of whether they have been appointed legally, (4) aunts, uncles or grandparents, (5) spouses of any of the above listed persons. Employees must provide notice, when possible, at least 10 days in advance.

OTHER BENEFITS

WORKING IN OFFICE/REMOTE POLICY

Hybrid Work Policy

Precision is providing every employee the ability to work 50% of their time in the office and 50% from their home (either DC or NY) throughout each month. We're empowering employees to choose a schedule that suits their needs, their teams, and the work. The 50% in-office policy is mandatory and operates monthly. Employees should plan to spread these days (e.g., in-office/in-home) throughout the month and not front-load or back-load the days. Unless granted permission from the Partners, employees are required to live within a commutable distance from either Precision office so they can be available to join an in-person meeting on short notice. The in-office day is a full, continuous workday and cannot be split, for example, an employee cannot spend the morning working from home followed by a midday commute and an afternoon spent in the office.

Any time an employee is out of the office due to a planned vacation or sick leave will be factored into the 50% time required in the office. For example, if during a month there are 22 workdays, and an employee takes 4 workdays as vacation days or 4 days as sick days, that leaves 18 remaining workdays for which the employee must work 9 workdays, or 50%, working in the office.

Mandatory All-Call Days

There will be two days a month designated as "all-call days" where all Washington DC employees are required to work in the office. The "all-call days" will fall on Wednesdays. Due to current space restrictions in the NY office, "all-call days" will only be mandatory for DC employees; however, "all-call" days may be extended to both offices in the future. The time in the office on "all-call days" counts towards the monthly 50% time required in the office.

Work From Anywhere

Employees will have the option to work a total of four (4) weeks annually from anywhere with approval from their manager and team lead. The following are requirements around using the work from anywhere time:

- This time must be approved in writing by managers and client leads to ensure coverage for in-person needs. This time will be approved in the same manner as vacation.
- Employees must maintain standard Precision work hours with no exceptions. As such, if an employee is traveling to a different time zone, they are expected to work on US Eastern Time Zone hours and cannot miss early or late meetings/assignments due to the time difference.
- If an employee is traveling to a destination, they are expected to do so after business hours or take vacation time.
- You can be remote for up to two weeks at a time. You can couple “work from anywhere” time with vacation. But, your total out of office time cannot be more than two weeks – meaning if you take one week vacation, you can add one week of “work from anywhere” before or after, but cannot take two week of vacation plus a week of “work from anywhere.”
- Since we handle confidential information for our clients, we ask that you take calls and work in a space that is private, i.e. not coffee shops or co-working open floor plans.

MEDICAL, DENTAL, AND VISION INSURANCE

Precision offers group insurance coverage for eligible full-time and temporary employees and their qualified family members, including domestic partners. Precision will pay 90% of the monthly premium. 10% of the cost is the responsibility of the employee. Half of the 10% will be withheld from your paycheck each twice-monthly pay period. As a full-time or temporary staff member, you may opt into group medical, dental, and vision plans, beginning on your date of hire.

The only time that you can make changes to your health insurance coverage is during the annual Open Enrollment period or if you experience a Qualifying Life Event (QLE), such as marriage, divorce, or birth of a child. Please contact the Operations team promptly with questions about Qualifying Life Events and enrollment. These benefits will be effective on the first of the month concurrent with or following your date of hire, unless otherwise notified or agreed upon with Precision.

Employees must work a minimum of 30 hours per week to be eligible for this benefit. For more information about benefits, please contact the HR team.

COBRA POLICY

You may be eligible to continue your health insurance coverage when you leave the Company. You will be responsible for the entire cost of COBRA coverage (employer and employee share, plus a 2% administrative fee). Upon termination, the Company will send all of the paperwork to you. If you wish to continue coverage with COBRA, you are then responsible for completing the forms that you are sent and remitting payment directly to the Company. Certain employees may be eligible for up to 18, 29 or 36 months of coverage depending on their qualifying event and state of residence.

RETIREMENT INVESTMENTS

Precision offers a retirement package to employees that includes 401(k) and profit-sharing plans. Temporary employees and interns are not eligible for the retirement package.

Upon hire, employees may immediately begin deferring salary into individual 401(k) accounts hosted by Vanguard. Employees may defer up to the IRS limit each year. Unrelated to amounts deferred by employees, Precision will contribute 3% of each employee's yearly compensation to each employee's account. This is referred to as a “Safe Harbor” contribution. Employee deferrals and Precision's Safe Harbor contributions will vest immediately. Precision does not currently have a matching program.

We are also pleased to offer all employees a profit-sharing plan in which everyone financially benefits from the success of the company. You become eligible to participate on either January 1 or July 1 following your one-year anniversary of employment at Precision. Employees must also remain employed by Precision at the end of the plan year (December 31) in order to receive a contribution for that year.

After you enroll, Precision will distribute a share of the firm's profit into your personal Vanguard account. All profit-sharing contributions are subject to a 6-year vesting schedule, with 20% vesting each year after the first year of participation in the plan. The exact amount that the Company may contribute on your behalf is anticipated to range from 0-5% of your compensation. All profit-sharing contributions are at the partners' discretion.

Company contributions for both the 401(k) and profit-sharing plans are allocated to employees' Vanguard accounts following the end of each plan year.

PRE-TAX COMMUTER BENEFITS

Precision provides a pre-tax commuter benefits program allowing employees to defer a portion of their paycheck on a pre-tax basis to be used for commuting costs during your employment. You will not have access to any funds remitted on your TASC debit card or WMATA transit card upon your termination date. Please contact the HR team for more information.

PRE-TAX FLEXIBLE SPENDING ACCOUNTS

Precision provides pre-tax healthcare flexible spending and dependent care flexible spending accounts allowing employees to defer a portion of their paycheck on a pre-tax basis to be used for medical and dependent care costs during your employment. You will not have access to any funds remitted on your TASC debit card upon your termination date. Please contact the HR team for more information.

TIME TRACKING & EXPENSES

TIME TRACKING

Precision is a professional service firm, meaning we sell knowledge, expertise and skills, not products. Clients hire professionals for their expertise and pay them for their time in the form of fees. Accurate accounting of staff time is critical information that's factored into decisions on account teams, hiring, real estate, technology, and even the clients we work with. Given the importance of managing staff time, employees are required to enter their time into Harvest each week.

Published time sheets are due every Monday at 3:00 PM ET for hours from the previous week. How you track your time is up to you, but the time must be entered into Harvest every week and it must be accurate. Please understand, tracking and entering your time is a job requirement, not an option, and if someone is continually delinquent, that behavior will impact decisions related to compensation, promotions and the like.

REIMBURSEMENTS

In order to maximize company resources, we need to attempt to keep costs low, eliminate unnecessary spending, and find efficiencies where we can. We also need to carefully track any expenses that are billable to clients, as requirements vary from client to client.

Every expense, either for reimbursement or on a company credit card, must be approved by both your supervisor and the Operations team. For example, a partner may approve a team member travelling for a client, but the Operations team still must approve the details of the travel plans. The Operations team will also provide guidance on billable travel expenses, which vary from client to client.

You must obtain both levels of approval before spending any money on behalf of the company. If you do not receive both approvals before spending, we may not reimburse any costs. If an unauthorized charge is made on a company credit card, it may be deducted from your next paycheck.

For overnight trips, Precision will provide you with a per diem of forty US dollars ($40.00) per day to cover meals and incidentals. Precision will not reimburse any food costs or provide a per diem for trips less than a 24-hour period.

For any client travel, please select the most efficient option and send to the Operations team for approval. The Operations team will confirm that your expenses fall within that client's travel policy.

For any internal, non-billable travel, please select the most cost-effective option, which may include the Acela if reasonably priced, and send to the Operations team for approval.

For any business expense, you must follow the steps of approval and also submit, along with the receipt, the names of the people attending and the business purpose, including the client or prospective client. For example, for a meal with a client or prospective client, you must submit the receipt, the attendees, and the business purpose. For any travel costs, you must submit the receipt, the business purpose for the travel, and the name of the client or prospective client.

All receipts for reimbursement must be submitted through Expensify. The Operations team will provide training. Precision will process reimbursements every Wednesday, and reimbursements will be made via ACH. In addition, all expenses for the previous month, both for reimbursement and on company credit cards, must be submitted by the first Wednesday of the following month. The receipts and business purpose for all charges on a company credit card must be submitted to that partner's assistant.

All exceptions to this policy for unique circumstances will be at the discretion of a partner.

NON-BILLABLE EXPENSE PREAPPROVAL

Any non-billable expense of $200 or more must be preapproved by the COO or a Partner prior to being incurred. Non-billable expenses are expenses that Precision cannot charge back to clients, e.g. new business, marketing, professional development, company social events, etc. In requesting approval for non-billable expenses, employees are required to send an email to the COO or a Partner detailing the following:

- Purpose of the expense (new business, marketing, professional development, etc.)
- Description of the expense (meal, airfare, train, course fee, etc.)
- Cost

Once the expense is approved and then incurred, employees must submit an expense report through Expensify for reimbursement of the expense. As with any expense—billable; non billable under $200; and non-billable $200 and above—expense reports must be filed within 30 days of the expense being incurred and require receipts and the appropriate descriptions. Please note, the IRS requires nonbillable Travel and Entertainment (T&E) expenses to detail the purpose and parties involved...for example, "new business dinner with Joan Smith, VP Communications, Acme Corp." Lastly, any expense report filed later than 30 days after the expense was incurred will not be reimbursed.

PERSONAL USE

Company funds cannot be used for any personal use, or to fulfill any commitment, obligation, or expense of a person that would exist irrespective of his or her employment with the Company.

AFTER HOURS

In the rare situations where an employee must work in the office late to complete time sensitive work (specifically for clients or new business), and their manager is aware and has approved, then the following expenses are eligible for reimbursement:

- Meals are capped at $20 and must be consumed in the office. They must be properly expensed, with receipts and details on why you had to stay late (e.g. client, project, new business, etc.).
- Ubers can be expensed for trips home from the office starting at 9:00 PM. These also must be expensed properly.

MOBILE PHONE REIMBURSEMENT POLICY

Precision will reimburse employees $50 per month for using their personal phone or mobile device for work. We recognize that allowing employees to use their personal device for work offers you the phone of your choosing and the ability to use one phone number for all contacts. With that being said, allowing employees to use personal phones for work presents security risks as we all have company and client emails, contact information, files, etc., coming to our phones without ensuring that proper security measures are in place.

As such, in return for reimbursing employees for using their personal mobile phones, we request employees sign the attached Mobile Device Acceptable Use Policy and Remote-Wipe forms. The Mobile Device policy requires employees using personal devices for work to use access passcodes or PINs, periodic changes to passcodes/PINs, and the ability to conduct a remote wipe or reset if the phone is lost or stolen.

To be reimbursed for personal mobile devices, employees must submit an expense report by the 21st of each month for the previous month's phone bill.

EMPLOYEE SAFETY & HEALTH

We strive to provide safe working conditions for our employees. We observe the safety laws of the government within whose jurisdiction we operate. No one will knowingly be required to work in any unsafe manner. Safety is every employee's responsibility, and all employees are expected to do everything reasonable and necessary to keep the office a safe place to work.

WORKER'S COMPENSATION

Precision carries, and pays for in its entirety, insurance covering its employees for all work-related injuries. Benefits help pay for your medical treatment and part of any income you may lose while recovering.

FIRE AND EMERGENCIES

IN CASE OF EMERGENCY, DIAL 911. The specific Building Policies are supplied by the Building Management at each office location.

ACCIDENTS

No matter how insignificant an injury may seem when it occurs, notify your direct supervisor immediately.

SEVERE WEATHER EMERGENCIES

During severe weather emergencies, employees should be aware that Precision does not follow the policy of the state or local governments. Except in extreme circumstances, Precision offices will remain open. Staff should make every effort to report on time. Should the weather circumstances be extreme, and the Partners determine that the office should be closed; an email message will notify staff of any change in office hours. When the state or local government is closed but the Precision office is open, you must contact your direct supervisor if you are unable to make it into the office.

TECHNOLOGY & DATA

Please remember that, for practical purposes, all electronic voice and data communications are public. This includes email, voicemail, text messages, Smartphone PIN messages, Slack messaging and web browsing. All communications should be professional and appropriate for public viewing.

SOCIAL MEDIA POLICY

The Company recognizes that using online social media (including blogging, posting to Facebook, Tumblr and Twitter, using Foursquare and other social applications) has become a major part of our lives, and in some cases an important part of our work. Taking part in online social media can help you build stronger, more successful personal and professional relationships, and enable you to take part in global conversations related to the Company's mission and strategic services. Social media also comes with risks, and the Company expects you to understand those risks and behave responsibly, with an awareness of the potentially serious consequences of missteps.

This policy applies to all of your postings online, including those that you believe are restricted to your friends and not generally available to the public, e.g., on private, password-protected Internet sites such as Facebook. Although Company management does not actively police your activity on private sites, this policy will be applied to any online activity that is brought to the Company's attention, regardless of where it was posted, so please assume that anything you post anywhere online may be read by Company management. Failure to follow this policy may subject you to disciplinary action by the Company, possibly including termination for cause or legal action against you by the Company to recover damages.

As a general rule, please post responsibly in social media; do not post anything that you would not say directly to your Company colleagues or managers. Some guidelines:

- You are responsible for everything you post online. This includes text (e.g., blog posts, tweets), images, audio and video (e.g., podcasts), and any other content attributable to you. Where possible, make it clear to readers, e.g., on your blog, that any views you express are yours alone and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Company. However, be aware that a disclaimer in itself does not excuse unprofessional or immature online conduct; even in words that are attributed clearly to you, you are expected to adhere to the substance of this policy. Be careful not to violate copyright or fair use laws if you excerpt the work of others.
- Protect confidential information. Do not disclose any information that you have reason to believe is confidential and proprietary to the Company, to a client or to any third party. Information about Company or client vendors and projects are confidential. Do not use geotagging or location-based applications in a way that disclose confidential information about the Company or any Company employee, or about a client or any client employee.
- Be respectful of others. Do not disparage the Company or any Company employees, clients, prospective clients, vendors, consultants, volunteers, or other professional contacts. Do not express controversial views about politics or current events in a way that may reflect poorly on your professionalism or on the Company. In particular, be cautious when posting content that might be perceived as disparaging of any public or private institution, elected official or political candidate from any party; strive to ensure that your comments are based in fact and to avoid a gratuitously snide or mocking tone.
- Protect your own privacy. Do not post any personal content which would be embarrassing to you, or the Company should it become public.
- Respect the Company's objectives. Be extremely cautious when posting personal opinions about issues, tactics, Company strategies, and so forth, especially if your opinion may reasonably be interpreted as representative of the Company. (Please consult your supervisor if you are ever unsure whether this guideline applies to a particular posting.) If you wish to post publicly about the Company, please take your cues from the Company's official posts or coordinate with the Company. Only those whose position requires use of social media should be posting anything related to the Company, provided it is first vetted and approved by a Company Partner.

- Acknowledge your misjudgments and strive to make them right. If you believe you have inadvertently posted something that is likely to have adverse consequences for the Company, please attempt to remove or revoke the post, and then alert your supervisor so that we can help you take what steps are possible to mitigate the impact.
- Follow the Nondisclosure Agreement.

Failure to follow this policy may subject you to disciplinary action by the Company, possibly including termination for cause or legal action against you by the Company to recover damages.

LEGAL

All staffers should immediately bring any legal issues or concerns to the attention of a Partner or the COO, and in some cases Human Resources.

TECHNOLOGY

The Company understands computing technology, electronic mail, and the Internet to be essential tools for the work of its employees. Staff members are encouraged to enhance their productivity by using such tools while following the guidelines for their use set in this document. But please remember the Internet is a largely unregulated and open medium and we have a duty to protect the security of the Company's internal information for our employees and clients.

The Company computing technology is assigned and supported exclusively for the work of the Company. Any data stored on a device that the Company has issued to an employee is the Company's property and must be returned, along with the device itself, before the employee leaves the Company. Employees may from time to time use such technology for personal purposes so long as it does not interfere with the employee's work or that of any other the Company employee. Further, acceptable personal use does not include the consumption of the Company resources. Use of the Company resources for any illegal activity, including piracy of music, video, or other medium, or for accessing or distributing material inappropriate to the workplace is strictly prohibited and will lead to disciplinary action or termination. The Company may routinely monitor all network traffic, including web sites visited by individual users. The Company management reserves the right to monitor such Internet traffic.

The Company understands that employees may use their personal computers, Smartphones, and/or other equipment to conduct the Company business. Any Company-related data captured, created, and/or stored on such devices is and remains the property of the Company.

You should have no expectation of privacy when you use the Company assets (including laptops or other tech equipment) or access the Company's network using your personal equipment (including laptop or Smartphone). Further, you should expect that by using a personal device to access the Company's network, you are subjecting your personal device to the Company's internal security and network procedures. If your device is lost or stolen, or you cease working for the Company, or in any other event that the Company decides, in its sole discretion, doing so is necessary, the Company may delete all Company information on your device without notifying you in advance.

By using the Company's network, you understand and consent to the following: (i) Communications and data transmitted or stored on the network are monitored and may be intercepted or searched at any time and for any lawful purpose by the Company, (ii) You have no reasonable expectation of privacy regarding any information passing through or stored on the Company's network, (iii) Communications and data that pass through or are stored on the Company's network may be disclosed or used for any lawful purpose, (iv) the Company may consent to a search by law enforcement of your communications and data transmitted or stored on this network, and (v) if you use a personal cellphone or Smartphone device to access the Company's network, the Company reserves the right to delete all Company information from your personal device without notifying you in advance.

ACCEPTABLE EMAIL USE

Employees will generally be provided with an @precisionstrategies.com email account for use in the conduct of professional responsibilities. Please keep in mind that all Internet messages sent from the Company domain implicitly represent the Company and should never contain information that it would be unacceptable to release into the public domain on the Company letterhead. Email is an inherently unsecure medium, analogous to a postcard in traditional mail, and should be treated with due care. Employees should limit use of the Company email account for personal correspondence; it is preferable that employees access public web-based email systems from office computers for personal needs. This is acceptable so long as it does not interfere with the employee's responsibilities.

Employees are encouraged to place a signature file on all of their outgoing email, identifying their position with the Company, contact information, and the Company website (www.precisionstrategies.com).

RESPONSIBILITY FOR PORTABLE EQUIPMENT

Contact the Company immediately if any of your Company equipment is missing. In the event of loss, theft or breakage of Company equipment, the Company and the responsible staffer may share the cost of replacing the equipment, based on the situation and the discretion of a Partner and as per your Company equipment lending agreement (a form copy of which is attached to this handbook).

Employees will not be required to reimburse the Company for normal "wear and tear" on the equipment.

PASSWORD SECURITY

Users have a responsibility to employ available security mechanisms and procedures for protecting their own data. They also have a responsibility for assisting in the protection of the systems they use. The security of each individual user is closely related to the security of the whole system, and whenever a user selects an inappropriately easy password, that user places the security of all the Company data at risk by making it possible for an unauthorized intruder to manipulate the entire system.

All employees are expected to employ responsible password security conduct, which must include:

- Ensuring that your password contains at least seven characters and any three of these four-character types (lower case, upper case, numeric, special characters).
- Changing your network logon password at any time you have a reasonable expectation that your password may have been compromised.
- Never disclosing your password to another individual under any circumstances.
- Never posting any password on a bulletin board or storing it in an identifiable format on or in your desk or workplace.
- Notifying and consulting the Company at any time you believe there may have been a security violation.

DATA CONFIDENTIALITY AND DATA OWNERSHIP

All electronic information generated and stored on the Company computers or Google drive, or using the Company network, is the property of the Company, including any emails, text messages, memoranda, or research acquired during an employee's business. Disclosing any information from Company network or files to another party, other than in the regular course of the Company responsibilities, is strictly prohibited and grounds for discipline or termination. This shall include sharing internal Company data with unauthorized users.

A departing employee has no right to retain any information generated during the Company business or via the Company technology, including the employee's emails and contacts, and may only do so with express Company permission from a Partner. Under no circumstances may a departing employee or any other non-Company party receive a copy of Company data or any fraction thereof from any Company database system, except as permitted explicitly and in writing by a Partner.

Please refer to your Nondisclosure Agreement for further direction.

CHANGES IN POLICY

Precision policies and procedures are subject to change at any time, at the direction of the Partners. Any changes will be effective on dates determined by the Company.

Precision will notify employees of changes to the Company policies. The latest version of this handbook can always be found on the Company shared Google Drive.
